

Marcus Beach House

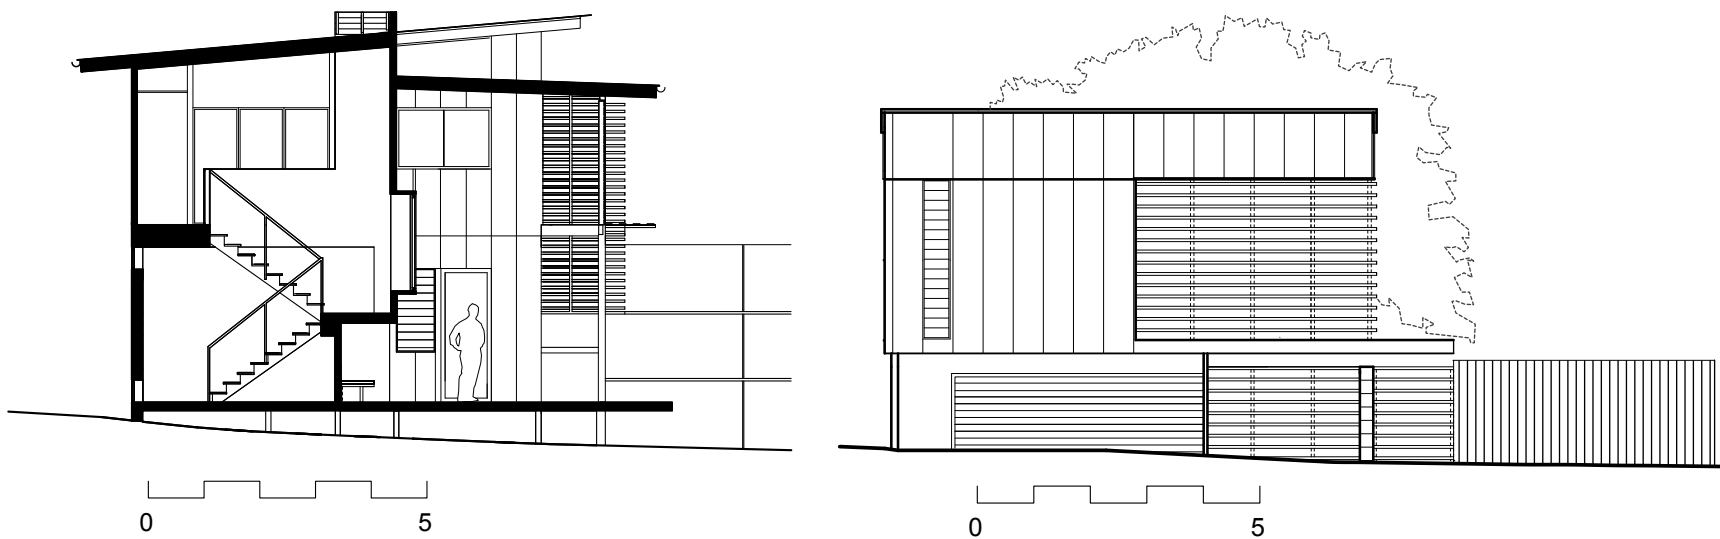

Architects: Stephen Guthrie, Lindy Atkin
Firm: Bark Design Architects
Location: Australia
Area: 280 m²
Photographer: Christopher Frederick Jones

Originally designed by Bark in 2002 for a young couple starting a family, the original premise of the Marcus Beach house was one of authenticity, economy, durability and simplicity. In 2009, a change of ownership to a semi-retired couple with a large extended family provided the opportunity to explore its design flexibility and initiate some early design concepts and some alterations and additions to further refine the dwelling for its new occupants, seven years later. Sited 250 meters away from Marcus Beach, Sunshine Coast, the basic "pavilion" plan was sketched out in the sand during an early site visit. A simple diagram of two timber pavilions placed either side of a venerable 50-year-old Morton Bay Ash ensures that the tree takes central stage to the scale, proportions and life of the house around it. Celebrating its natural and coastal setting, the house provides its occupants with an inextricable link to the landscape. Exploring ideas of lightness, layers of transparency and integrating indoor / outdoor living within dynamic patterns of light and shadow, the Marcus Beach house is a simple frame to enable a contemporary coastal lifestyle to unfold within a very special landscape.

该住宅最初是2002年由Bark为一对年轻夫妇设计的新房。马库斯海滩别墅最初的设计理念真实、经济、耐用，且风格朴素。2009年，房屋易主，其主人是一对将近退休的夫妇，有着儿孙满堂的大家庭。因此，该住宅的设计变得灵活，开始着手几处最初未实现的设计理念，并做些改动。于是7年之后，为其新进的居者更添精致，焕然一新。

该住宅距马库斯海滩阳光海岸仅250米，其基本的设计图纸是要在最初实地选址的基础上扩建。图纸简单明了，在这座有50岁高龄的珍贵的莫顿湾两侧分立起两幢木质小楼，那棵虬枝荏苒的大树就居中矗立，与这栋住宅的大小、比例和周围的环境交相辉映。

地处这个自然且临海的房址，该住宅为业主打造了一个与自然景观密不可分的居住环境。该住宅探索着明快的理念、通透的楼层，室内和室外光影交错变化，空间互相整合。马库斯海滩别墅以一个简明的生活框架打造了现代海滩的生活方式，展现了一道独特的风景线。
